A Balloon in a Thunderstorm—Wonderful Escape from Drath.—Mons. Godard, Col. Latham, and Messrs. Hoal, Crippen, and Belman, ascended in a balloon at Cincinnati on Monday, October 1st. It appears they encountered a violent thunderstorm in the clouds, which drove the balloon on, it is stated, at the rate of seventy miles an hour, and that they attained an altitude of 17,450. Mr. Belman thus describes their descent after dark and during the storm:

Suddenly we felt our car rushing over the tops of trees, crashing and tearing the limbs as the balloon was driven along. Mons. G. gave us the valve rope, and mounting the side of the car, he ordered us to hold fast. The police immediately repaired to the store, and found that the goods had been over-hauled and a large amount carried off, but no trace of the robbers could be obtained. It is probable that when the carriage drove up there were several inside the store, and the one who accosted the watchman kept his attention so engaged that he did not observe the others enter the carriage with their plunder, and thus the daring robbery was effected.—New York Tribune, 2d.

It is refreshing to read of such a conviction in he minds of the mass of the people; and to observe in the election returns how the mass of the people record such a conviction. State after State, with a marvellous uniformity, have pronounced the American party unfit to be trusted

The editor perhaps holds that whilst the people voted one way they were convinced another. Such is about his estimate of the people, and we are not surprised at it. He has kept bad company until he has imbibed an ill opinion of the world. In attempting to account for the origin of the new party, he gives a sorry account of the old Whig party. It had become effete, lifeless, and useless. This may be true, if the editor will confine it to the Whig party, of which only he has a right to speak. He says :

The parties themselves had become a prey to selfish, pettifogging politicians. The interests of the people were sacrificed to mere personal ambition. The places of patriots were occupied by demagogues. Principles were forgotten in the greed of public office, and our popular elections were no longer an expression of public opinion upon the policy of our government, but hey had become mere struggles between aspirants for blaces at the public crib.

This is a severe judgment to pass on old friends. The editor's old party had the power in this State in the legislative and judicial departments. They had nearly all the offices in this city, and here is the description their old friend gives of them. It must apply to the dominant party in Kentucky, for they chiefly had the offices. If the editor's party had sunk so low it is not surprising that it fell into a lower deep. They are very patriotic and very pure now, according to the editor of the Journal; but his testimony is not worth much. He told a different story less than twelve months ago. If mistaken then, he is quite likely to be so Beware of this editor, ye self-styled Americans; eulogising but a few short months ago. You have no security that he will not say as much of you a yield this year, equal in our measure to twenty few months hence. He has wasted a great deal of ink in your praise in the day of your hope and prosperity, but now that the day of your despair and calamity is at hand he will turn his back upon you. He has so treated the eld Whig party, and will he treat a new one any better?

The editor of the Journal pretends that foreign influence had gotton control of the government. If he means the Federal government, some of his readers would be improved by a little information. No cabinet officer is a foreigner; no member of the Senate is a foreigner, only two members of Congress out of 231 were born out of the United States. Common people would like to know, then, how this foreign influence had gotton centrol of the government.

The editor lets leak out what he means, in show ing that the naturalized vote of the country elected the present Executive of the United States. There is, in fact, the evil influence. Foreigners have not supported the editor of the Journal and his party it is suspected, and therefore their influence has been evil. If they had only voted for him and his party, they would have been excellent voters. In the late election, foreigners who were mean enough to vote the self-styled American ticket were carefully protected; and they would be all taken into fellowship if they would only help Know-Nothing demagogues to rule and

Our opinion is, and facts warrant it, that the editor has the same reason to think ill of native influence. In the South, where there are the fewest foreigners, his party has been most signally overthrown at the ballot-bex; and the Know-Nothings will soon cry out for protection against the evil influence of native-born Ameri-

We are informed, very complacently, of the exalted patriotism of the new party. The Pharisees This song, like all the General's productions, is of trusted in themselves that they were righteous, a graceful flowing rythm: and despised others; and their successors in politics and religion have kept up their high pretensions in direct proportion to their hypocrisy.

Of course, what the editor says about the vitality and nationality of his party is all to cheer up the hopes of the faithful. A little wine in the last stages of human existence inspires its subject with a temporary life; so may these idle delighted that they were present. boastings of the editor of the Journal nurse a little spark of expiring hope in Know-Nothingism. The faction already belongs to the past. It is high time to gather up the fragments of its brief and disreputable history. The political contest of next year is already shaped, and Know-Nothingism has no part in it, except as a faction in the free States, to be used by the Abolitionists. It is well understood now that the bogus American party cannot carry a single Southern State, nor do they constitute a tenth of the vote of any free State, unless on the Abolition platform. Such is their nationality and vitality.

Let any Know-Nothing who doubts our judgment, mark it down. We tell him that his party has no future. It will have nothing to do with the great contest of next year, except as one of the numerous factions, headed by the Abolitionists, against the Democratic party.

We shall give but a brief notice of the Democratic meeting at Lexington until the full proceedings are before the public. It was intended as a mass meeting, but the prompt action of the counties gave the assemblage more the char- praoter of a State Convention. The Democracy from all sections of the State were on hand. The old men of the party came together to aid their country with their advice and counsel in the present emergency. We have never seen a more intelligent and influential assemblage in the State. Wedo know that this party of fusion is, in the trues of all senses, and the worst of all senses, a geographical party. What argument against it can we add to this? Such a party, like war, is to be made when it in necessary. If it is not necessary, it is like war, too, it remendous and uncompensated evil. When it shal have become necessary the eternal separation will have begun. That time, that end, is not yet. Let us not has ten and not anticipate it, by so rash an innovation at this. Such was the felicity of our condition that the very lissensions which rent small republics in twain welder and compacted the vast fabric of our own. Does he who would substitute for this form of conducting outpild differences a geographical party, completely understand his own work? Does he consider how vast are the second of the control of the con d his own work? Does he consider how yast ar lonal instrumentality the party life and influence he? To choose his political connection aright is the most delicate and difficult duty of the citizen. We have made our choice, and we abide by it. We join ourselves to no party that does not carry the flag and keep step to the music of the Union.

In the organization of governments for the Territories, we conceive that it is the duty of Congress to adhere to the wise principle of non-intervention, and let the people regulate the question of slavery for themselves, free from Congressional dictation. For many years these opinions have subjected us to the fierce assaults of the Abolition ond Freesoil parties, who have maintained that slavery should be prohibited by Congress, and that no more slave States or Territories should be admitted into the confederacy. The Democratic party achieved a victory without parallel, and in the last Congress possessed large majorities both in the Senate and House of Representatives. The wave of population ever setting westward, had reached beyond the confines of Missouri, and rendered the organization of govments for these Western Territories iudispensable. The large tracts included within Nebraska and Kansas were without laws. They were portions of the old Louisiana territory, and slavery had existed within them at the time of the purchase from France. In 1820 the Northern States, in an unjust and aggressive spirit, had refused to admit Missouri as a State, unless upon condition that slavery should be abolished. A protracted strug-Missouri as a State, unless upon condition that slavery should be abolished. A protracted struggle ensued, and at length the Southern States, to secure good feeling and tranquility, consented to an unjust restriction, by which it was provided that slavery should be forever prohibited in the territory lying North of 36 degrees and 80 minutes of north latitude, while it was only permitted South of that arbitrary boundary. To this arrangement the Southern States adhered in good South of that arbitrary boundary. To this arrangement the Southern States adhered in good faith. The Abolition party, after the last Presidential election, had sunk into letharty. The moment a Democratic Congress courageously declared the rights of the people of the territories to regulate the question of slavery for themselves, the Abolitionists and Freesoilers sought auxiliaries to overthrow their hated enemy. The Southern members, aided by the Northern Democrats, had passed, and a Northern Democratic Congress and to prevent the Southern than the Southe thern Democrats, had passed, and a Northern Democratic President had approved the bill. In every quarter emissaries were active, and the pulpits of the North, as well as public meetings, rang with political sermons and religious harangues. About the same time the Native American party, after was not again renewed until some municipal elec-rears of neglect and oblivion, had been again reyears of neglect and oblivion, had been again revived as a serret society, with oaths and mysteries to attract and secure the ignorant. This element was too important to be overlooked. Nothing was to be lost, while everything was to be gained by an alliance. The foreign immigrants had usually, after acquiring rights of citizenship, attached themselves to the Democracy. The Democracy had always supported the constitutional view of the slavery question, and the prescription of those of foreign birth alienated no friends while it conciliated allies and might induce descritoring the Democratic ranks. The fusion was soon completed. Another resource presented itself. The ciliated allies and might induce desertion from the Democratic ranks. The fusion was soon completed. Recent indications showed that the public mind was capable of being excited upon the Catholic question. Indiana Election.

The election in our sister State comes off to-day such of our readers as are citizens of Jeffersonville and New Albany. Every person is entitled to vote, although challenged, upon taking the folowing oath before the Inspectors:

You do swear (or affirm) that you are a citize of the United States; that you are over the age of 21 years, according to the best of your information and belief; that you resided in this State during the six months immediately preceding this elec-tion; that you are at this time a resident of this township or precinct (as the case may be); that you are generally known by the name in which you now ask to vote; and that you have not voted at any other poll at this election. And in case of persons of foreign birth, that part of the oath rel ative to citizenship shall be dispensed with, and the following substituted: "That you have resided in the United States one year, and have declared your intentions to become a citizen of the United States in conformity with the laws thereof."

SEC. 81. If any person shall use any threats nenaces, force, or any corrupt means, at or previous to any election held pursuant to the laws of this State, towards any elector to hinder or determined to the state, towards any elector to hinder or determined to the state, towards any elector to hinder or determined to the state of the s such elector from voting at such election, or shall directly or indirectly offer any bribe or reward any kind, to induce any elector to vote contrary this inclinations, or shall on the day of the election give any public treat, or authorize any other per-son to do so, to obtain votes for any person, the person so offending shall be fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, and be incapable of holdin any office for two years after conviction thereof.

OLD ALMANACS AS GOOD AS NEW .- By a strange oincidence, which will not again occur for a long while, the new year of 1855 commenced on the same day as in 1849, and, consequently, all through the year, the date will be on the same day. But what is more singular is that all the moveable holidays, from Septuagesima to Advent, fall on the same days. The almanacs of 1849 might, therefore, serve for the present year.

Mass Meeting at Vincennes, Ind. We acknowledge the receipt of a special invitaion to attend a Mass Meeting at Vincennes, Indiana, on the 17th inst. A number of distinguished peakers have been invited who promise to be resent. Ample preparations are being made for good time and a glorious meeting of the stering Democracy of Indiana. We endorse the un- bottles, by diching and indomitable energy of our gallant neighbor, and especially commend their unwavering zeal in the support of Democratic principle to Democrats elsewhere.

DR. A. M. MAURICRAU—My Dear Sir. My wife has been perceptibly sinking for some three years or more, in consequence of great anguish and suffering some months before and during continement; every successive one more and more debilitated and prostrated her, putting her life in imminent danger, and which was on the last occasion despaired of. I supposed that this state of things was incritable, and resigned myself to meet the worst. I heard your book highly spoken of, as containing some matters reaching my case. On its receipt and perusal I cannot express to you the relief it parted to my wife, on learning that the great discovery of M. M. Desomeaux provided a remedy. It opened a prospect to me which I little conceived was possible. But for this, ere another year would have passed over my head, in all human probability my wite would have been in her grave and my children left motherless.

Fever and Ague or Chills and Fever. URKHARDT'S FEVER AND AGUR EMBLDY, the most certain, safe, and effectual remedy ever made known to the public. In placing this medicine before the public we do it with that confidence which is obtained only by long experience. This preparation we have been making for the last ten years, and have given it to all classes and conditions, to the old man and the infant, and always with the utmost success. The advantages claimed for it are the quick effect produced, the small quantity necessary to effect a CVER (seldom more than one dose), the permanency of the cure, and the simplicity of the compound, as it contains nothing of a deleterious nature. co effect a CURE (seldom more than one dose), the paramanency of the cure, and the simplicity of the compound, as it coniains nothing of a deleterious nature.

NO ARSENIC, NO MERCURY, NO QUINNE, so that it may be given to the infant of the most tender age.

It is composed of the purest articles to be found in the country, and compounded by Henry Burkha dt in person, who, having had lifteen years' experience in the drug business, is competent to prepare it according to the strictest rules of Pharmacy.

One bottle always effects a cure, and we have certificates where one bottle has cured four cases, and a number where three have been cured, when with other preparations it is necessary to take several bottles to effect a cure, and several more to keep it cired.

This article is soid by most of the druggists throughout the city and country, and the low price of FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE puts it within the reach of all. Be sure to ask for Burkhard's Ague Remedy, and take no Manufacturers and Proprietors, No. 417 Market street, Louisville, Ky.

Louisville Cattle Market.

The receipts, sales, &c., for the week ending to-day, have been as follows, as obtained by our reporter from heep and lambs.... Left over this week: Sheep and lambs...

The market has been very abundantly supplied during the week past; indeed, the receipts very far exceed those of any previous week for some time. This has been caused partly by the fact that our beef-packing houses are beginning their season. A new packing house is about to be opened, or has been already opened for putting away five thousand head of cattle for the European market. This also accounts for the rise in European market. This also accounts for the rise in price since our last report—fully equal to $\frac{1}{16} \mathcal{C} \psi$ b. The quality is about the same as previously reported. The receipts have been pretty well divided between Kentucky and Indiana, as follows: tucky and Indiana, as follows:

Ky.—Bullitt co., 28 cattle; Grayson co., 141 cattle; Spencer co., 90 sheep and lambs. IND.—Floyd co., 120 sheep and lambs; Monroe co., 20 do and 45 cattle; Orange co., 35 cattle and 235 sheep and lambs. Kv.—Bullitt co., 40 cattle; Garrard co., 44 do and 58 sheep and lambs; Lincoln co., 46 cattle; Nelson co., 105 do; Oldham co., 6 do; Shelby co., 109 do and 71 sheep and lambs; Spencer co., 32 cattle. IND.—Clarke co., 38 cattle.

and for a particular purpose. There was but one Milk Cow in the market—sold with the calf at $28.

HOGS—Slop-fed, from Carrolton and Milton, Ky., and Edinburg, Ind., at 5% to 5%c.

SHEEP—Sales were made at prices ranging from $1 50 to $2 and $3. Lambs at from $1 25 to $2.

er with kindness and love, as is related in the other with kindness and love, as is related in the following story:

"Last evening," says a missionary gentleman,
"I supped with Lydia's father and mother. Before supper, Lydia, her parents and myself, were sitting in the room together, and her little brother Oliver was out in the yard drawing the cart about. The mother went out and brought in some peaches, a few of which were large red-cheeked rare-ripes—the rest small ordinary peaches. The father handed me one of the rare-ripes, gave one of the best to his little daughter, who was eight years old. He then took one of the smaller ones, and gave it to Lydia, and told her to go and give it to her brother. He was four years old. Lydia went out, and was gone about ten minutes, and then came in.

"Did you give your brother the peach I sent him "asked the father.

"Lydia blushed, turned away her head, and did processed to the state of the state

Lydia blushed, turned away her head, and did not answer.

"'Did you give your brother the peach I sent him?' asked the father again, a little more sharply.

"'No, father,' said she, 'I did not give him

"' What did you do with it?" he asked. 'I eat it,' said Lydia.
'What! Did you not give your brother any?

"'Yes, I did, father,' said she, 'I gave him mine."
""Why did you not give him the one I told you to give?" asked the father, rather sternly.
""Because, father," said Lydia, "I thought he would like mine better."

But you ought not to disobey your father,' "'I did not mean to be disobedient, father,' said she, and her bosom began to heave, and her chin to quiver.

"But you were, my daughter,' said he.

"I thought you would not be displeased with me, father,' said Lydia, 'if I did give brother the argest peach, and the tears began to roll down her cheeks.

"But I wanted you to have the largest,' said the father; you are older and larger than he is.'

"I want to give the best things to brother,' said the noble girl.

""Why?" asked the father, scarcely able to contain himself. "Because, answered the dear, generous girl, I we him so; I always feel best when he gets the best things."

"You are right, my precious daughter,' said the father, as he fondly and proudly embraced her in his arms. You may be certain your happy father can never be displeased with you for wishing to give up the best of everything to your affectionate little brother. He is a dear and noble boy, though his family has left, he remains himself, and, clad in the black veil of the Fraternity of Mercy, he sometimes assists in the burial of the dead.

It is positively affirmed in this letter that ten persons were lately buried alive. The horrible fact was brought to light in this way:

An Italian ware-house keeper in Palazzuolo (a fauborg of Florence) was buried for dead in the Trespiano cemetery, with many other supposed corpses, in a common grave. He awoke to a sense of consciousness, and so thin was the covering of sandy earth above him that he made his way out to the surface. Still weak, he lived for three days on roots in the forest which surrounds the grave-yard. At last he recovered strength sufficient to reach his house, where he startled his forest was a surface of the surface of t roots in the forcest which surrounds the grave-yard. At last he recovered strength sufficient to reach his house, where he startled his family, who were in mourning for him. He assured them that he distinctly felt the bodies of numerous people interred with him moving about. The grave was consequently opened, and it was found that many (ten in number, as I have said) had stirred, and several of them had bitten their fingers in agony, and otherwise injured themselves. They were all dead when the investigation was made. The utmost excitement prevailed on the subject among the population.—Corr London News, Sept. 19.

The Preparatory and Auxiliary Sciences and Literature of the Law—Rhetoric and Logic, including especially Terminology, Definition, Abstraction, Generalization, Division, and Argumentation, and the Etnies, which, having been the basis, supplies the deficiencies in the fullness and exactness of the positive provisions of every law—constituting together this separate department, but discussed in the study, to a greater or less extent, of every branch of jurisprudence.

11. History—studied briefly in its own department, but continually in connection with the Civil Law, the Common Law of England and America, the Organic and International Law, and with the arbitrary portions of every other head of jurisprudence in the diagram.

11. The Organic Law of Government. It is proper to mention that this high head of Law is not passed over here in the ordinary mode. It is discussed and studied, not only abstractedly, on the self-evident axioms and the proposition of the arbitrary Law, but in the examples of the diversited forms of Government which have been and are now existent. Its course is, however, commenced and terminated in exercises upon our own Constitutions and Statutory Organic Law, and the history of the origin, formations, revolutions, mulations, and extensions of our own Government. Everything obtained elsewhere is appropriated in this course to the illustration, analysis, and synthetic discussion of our own System.

tations, and extensions of our own government. Everything obtained elsewhere is appropriated in this course to the illustration, analysis, and synthetic discussion of our own system.

IV. International Law. The course in this department must of course be commenced with the necessary or natural Law, and embrace the history of the customary and other arbitrary Law down to the present day among civilized and commercial nations. But especial attention with be paid to the public acts, treaties, and statutes of the United States, which recognize, assert, and prescribe the rights and duties of the Government and its citizens towards other nations, their citizens, and subjects.

V. The Clivil or Roman Law and of the Common Law, in connection with the statutes in improvement thereof, found in the Acts of Congress, the takest Digests, Revisions and Codes of the several States, including Maritime and other Mercantile law, and The Equity Jurisprudence administered in the Federal and state Courts.

V. Law of Evidence, including not only the arbitrary and expressly recognized rules of the rational Law, which determine the several passumptions, what is required, what competent, and what may be inferred, but the residuary necessary laws of Argumentation which must be employed in obtaining the conclusion on every treat.

V. The Practice of Law in the Courts of the United the States, with its practice in the Federal and State Courts.

Every student will be taught the composition of the receiver of business, the pleadings and other documents used in the practice of the several Courts, with the forms of process and of entries of judicial proceedings; and A Moot Court will be held twice a week for the exercise of all the students in the Practice of Law, and the argument of questions of fact and Law in a mode becoming the Counseins.

It will be observed that one Professor only fills all the Professorships in this College, but all his time not required by his judician duties is employed with his students, and each class will have the benefit of not less than three lessons every day, and the Institution is incorporated by a statute of Kentucky, with power toconier all the degrees known in either the Civil or Common Law, or which can be conferred by any college or university in America or Europe, so that every student may and shall have whatever diploma he shall have earned.

It treats on the Pysiology of Marriage, and the secret infirmities and disorders of youth and maturity, resulting from excesses, which destroy the physical and mental powers, and diseases arising from indiscretion, with plain and simple rules by which all persons can cure themselves without mercury, with the author's observations on marriage, its duties and disqualifications, and their remedies; with colored lithographs, illustrating the remedies; with colored lithographs, illustrating the functions and their remedies; with colored lithographs, illustrating the remedies; with colored lithographs, illustrating the functions. It contains many important hints to those contemplating matrimony, which will overcome objections against marriage; none, however, should take this important step without first consulting its pages. It treats of all diseases of females, whether married or single. Hints to those who desire no more children. Strangers who require medical aid, before consulting any doctor, ought to know whether their cases are properly understood by those whom they employ, and thus guard against the imposition of quackery, so prevalent in populous cities. It would be out of place in this advertisement to dwell at length, and in detail, upon all the advantages of this location, and the brilliant prospects of a city so fortunately situated, and being a terminal point of such a road upon such a river; but let the inquirer look at the prominent facts and reason for himself. Kentucky city has a high and heakity locality—protected from all in undations by the nature of the grounds, the heighth of the river bank, and the necessary embankment for the railroad track; it is surrounded by a fertile and heakity country, rapidly settling. Its front is washed by the mighty "Father of Waters," navigable from this point at all seasons of the year for the largest class steamers, with a permanent and enduring bank, and having confessedly one of the best and most secure harbors to be found from New Orleans to St. Louis. Kentucky city is indirect connection with the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, having its depot within her limits. By steamboat connection, which has been arranged, we will be in daily communication with the areat Illinois Central Railroad at Cairo, and also by a like connection with the Cairo and Fulton or great California route, the road now fondly cherished by the three States of Missouri, Arkansas, and Texas, as also the St. Leuis and Iron Mountain Railroad, one branch of which is proposed to terminate on the west bank of the river opposite our town. The Mobile and Ohio Railroad comes up to us from Alabama, passingthrough Mississippi and Western Tennessee, its cars freighted with the sugar, the cotton, the rice, and tropical fruits of the South, to return laden with the provisions and brandsturs and all the products and manufactures of the West and North, brought down to us by the Mississippi and Ohio rivers, with their numerous and
